LAPD Police Commissioners, Chief McDonnell, the LAPD and all citizens,

"Quality through continuous Improvement' is one of the core values of the LAPD. Core values, like laws, are just words on a piece of paper if they are not implemented and lived. I call everyone's attention to the LAPDONLINE.ORG website again. I call your attention to the events section again. What do you see there? Where are the events that should be listed there but are not? This has been an ongoing problem that is evidence of the neglect of the LAPD as it relates to community policing and community police communication.

It would be better just to remove the events section of the website than to just let it languish through lack of use.

That is the sad state of affairs at LAPD where basic simple things just don't get done. Do you wonder why there is a recruitment problem? The last class to graduate the LAPD Academy only graduated 21 recruits.

Would you join a department that doesn't even seem capable of managing its own website with an updated events section? Where is the Police Commission on this? The problem with the website has been mentioned and documented numerous times and yet there is no improvement. Apparently, the core value of "quality through continuous improvement" is just words that sound high-minded and positive but really don't mean anything to the Police Commissioners. Oversight begins with the basics. The LAPD and the people they protect deserve better, much better.

One Of Many Frustrated Concerned Citizens,
Steve Reilly

LAPD Police Commissioners,

We, the Voices for LAPD, have a long history of positive support for the men and women of the LAPD who protect and serve our communities. We support professional positive policing and do our part in being good partners in the community policing partnership. We expect the Los Angeles Police Commission to do everything it can to positively implement community policing utilizing all department, community and city resources to do so. Furthermore, we believe that a healthy vibrant community police partnership will make us all safer and feel safer in our own communities.

We ask that , in this critical time, the Police Commissioners reflect on what has not been done but should be done to strengthen communication and teamwork between our professional police department and our community members! We know that we have some of the best police officers in the world at LAPD and they deserve the best leadership. Provide that leadership!

God Bless And Save The LAPD, The City Of Los Angeles And All.

Respectfully,

Voices For LAPD
